DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (If known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This 1½ storey cottage has a somewhat complex plan [at least to describe], but it is basically one main axial block (running parallel to the railroad tracks) with various wings running out from it [see photos], one of which is almost 2 full storeys in height. Being a cottage-style house, this building has steep peaked roofs with simple scroll-saw barge-boards, long, narrow (shuttered) windows, and a verandah sort of tying together the whole front of the house. There are some plain scroll-saw brackets on this porch. The south-east gabled corner has a round headed, 2nd Empire Revival style window on two sides. The house is white clapboard with charcoal-green trim.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (Include Personages, Dates, Events, Etc.)

Obviously a survivor of Mountain Lake Park's days as a fashionable summer resort, this large 'cottage' also shows the preference for the Downing-A.J.Davis inspired cottage-style for this type of structure. Although most of the decoration is simpler than that usually found on a Downing cottage (plus the fact that here there are later, newer decorative elements, such as the French, 2nd Empire Revival windows), the massing of the roofs definitely produces the desired picturesque quality. House is well preserved representative of period and place, plus it has a superb view of the glades.
